

I'm Here to Send the Lord's Peace to You...

Msgr. Walter C. Orlowski

March 29, 2020

I'm here to send the Lord's peace to you from the Sanctuary of our Church. During this time of great challenge, know that we are not alone, but rather the Lord is with us.

A few weeks ago, I stood here telling you that hope will never leave us disappointed. God will never leave us disappointed. Because the love of God has been poured into our hearts, and those words should bring us comfort and consolation and remind us that the Lord truly is our shepherd and he is guiding us through these most difficult days.

We look to him for our strength and we pray like we have never have before asking the Lord to give us everything we need to endure and to see us through these difficult times.

Make no mistake about it – these days will pass, and once again, our church will be filled and we will be gathered together as the parish family of faith. It is that faith that sustains us on good days and bad days, it is the Lord who embraces us, who reminds us how much he loves us, and wants only the best for us as we walk through these most challenging times. Be assured of my prayers for each of you, I ask your prayers for me, for Msgr. Sabia, Fr. Sunil, Sr. Sally and the Staff, for all of God's people as we strive to get through these difficult days and once again, make no mistake: these days will pass.
